Chris Wong – From Central Secondary to Television Star

As a famous actor on the popular local television series "Emergency Ward," Chris Wong has come a long way since his days at Central Secondary School. After graduating with good grades, Chris pursued his passion for the performing arts, honing his craft at the prestigious School of Performing Arts before landing his breakout role on the small screen.

"I absolutely love what I do," says Chris with a bright smile. "Being able to bring characters to life and entertain audiences is such a thrill. The energy and excitement on set is incredibly special."

While the glamour of red-carpet premieres and fan meet-and-greets may seem alluring, Chris is quick to point out the hard work and dedication required to succeed in the entertainment industry. "It's not all glitz and glamour - there's an intense amount of preparation that goes into every project. Memorising pages of dialogue, perfecting my delivery, and getting into the right mindset for each scene requires incredible focus and discipline."

In addition to his acting skills, Chris has had to develop a thick skin to handle the pressures of fame. "The constant media scrutiny and online criticism can be really tough to deal with at times. But I've learned to tune out the noise and stay focused on my job."

Reflecting on his journey, Chris credits his well-rounded education at Central Secondary as the foundation for his success. "The diverse curriculum and extracurricular activities helped me discover my passion for the arts and develop essential skills like public speaking, critical thinking, and time management. These have been invaluable in my career."

Chris's advice to current Central Secondary School students is to pursue their interests with unwavering dedication. "Find something you are truly passionate about and do not be afraid to put in the hard work. With determination and perseverance, you can turn your dreams into reality, just like I did."

From his humble beginnings in the school theatre to headlining one of Hong Kong's most popular television shows, Chris Wong's journey is a testament to the power of following your passions. As he continues to captivate audiences both big and small, Central Secondary could not be prouder to call him one of their own.
